THE DATA-DRIVEN LAWYER AWARDS

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

When are nominations due?
● Submissions are due August 24 no later than 5pm eastern time. We cannot accept any submissions after the deadline.

How do we nominate someone?
● Go to the online submission form and answer the questions provided. Here is a copy of the questions on the form.

Who can be nominated?
● This award is open to both private practice and in-house attorneys. Both associates and partners can enter.

Does the nominee have to be using a specific legal analytics tool in order to be considered?
● No. This award is looking to honor creative use of legal analytics for lawyers generally. All legal analytics tools will be considered equally.

How many different entries may one firm/company submit?
● A firm or company can nominate up to three attorneys. It is unlikely that more than one attorney from a firm would be selected, so please consider that when you make your submission.

What is the word limit?
● Please try to keep the total word count of your entry under 1,500 words.

What are you looking for in the submission?
● Limit your submission to the most significant data-driven achievements within the past five years, and include no more than three total.
● Submissions can highlight examples from the past five years, though it is unlikely the nominee will be chosen if no examples are recent (within the last year).
● Submissions should be specific about details, what role analytics played in the matter, what role the attorney played and what positive outcome they helped secure. If the achievement was secured as part of a team, the role of the nominee on that team should be noted. If discussing a transaction/deal, please make clear what the attorney did and for which party or parties, along with the role analytics played.
● Concrete dollar figures, if relevant, are helpful. Example: Analytics played a role in a $5 billion transaction.
● It is not necessary to include any accolades the attorney has won from other publications or organizations.

How do I choose a practice area?
● Pick the practice area from the list that is most closely linked to the nominee’s practice. If you don’t see one that fits, just choose “other” and write in a description in the box that appears. Descriptions of practice areas as Law360 defines them can be found here if that helps as well, but it need not be a perfect match.

Can I include confidential information?
● No. If we cannot include important information on the submission in a profile, we cannot choose that attorney for an award.

Can I attach a headshot?
● No. When we announce our winners, we will request a headshot.

How many nominees will be chosen?
● The number of attorneys we select will depend on the amount and quality of submissions we receive.

How and when are winners notified?
● The person who submits the nomination will be notified via the email address provided whether or not the nominee has been selected.
● Winners will be notified in late September.

Can I send in additional supporting materials?
● No. Submissions will be judged on the answers to the questions on the submission form only.

What will you do with our submission?
● By making a submission, you agree that entry form details may be published by Law360. It is your responsibility to submit accurate information.
● If you are selected as a winner, you must agree to be interviewed by a Law360 reporter for a profile.

What if I have more questions?
